ROCK ISLAND HIGH SCHOOL 1985

A Celebration Of Excellence

The first Watchtower was published at Rock Island High School in 1910, thus the 1985 staff thought it appropriate to honor the seventy-fifth anniversary of our year-book. As you browse through the book you will find pictures of our ancestors and their present day counterparts in various sporting and academic events. We hope you will enjoy a brief comparison of how our school has changed over three quarters of a century.

By 1910 Rock Island High School was already thirty-six years old and in its third home. It was located on twenty-first street between sixth and seventh avenues. Mr. A. J. Burton served as principal directing a faculty of eighteen teachers and five hundred fifty-one students, a modest population to our one-hundred three teachers and two thousand one-hundred six students. The 1985 graduates total four-hundred to the fifty-one in the class of 1910.

The curriculum of seventy-five years ago also was extremely limited by our present standards. Only ten different subjects were offered, but today Rocky offers one-hundred eighty-seven different courses.

Academics certainly had top priority in 1910 with students being required to take at least two unannounced hour long recitations each quarter in each subject. Students also had to take public rhetorical exams upon request. A final average of seventy-five percent was demanded for promotion and graduation.

Sports did play an important part in the school activities with boys fielding teams in football, baseball, basketball, cross-country and track. The girls only had basketball in which to showcase their athletic abilities. Maroon and Old Gold were the official school colors displayed at these sporting events.

The first Watchtower was financed by the selling of advertising which allows us to compare the community of 1910 and 1985 as well as the school. The ads of sixty-five business establishments in the city of Rock Island helped pay the expenses of the 1910 publication. It is interesting to note that one could spend a luxurious night at the Harms Hotel for one to two dollars, or one could buy a top quality man's suit from The Hub for between twelve and thirty dollars. Best of all was the fact that a mounted senior class picture could be purchased for fifty cents from Smith Studios.

When the Watchtower went to press in 1910 it was established as a quarterly publication. The school Literary Society used it to showcase student writings of all types. In 1917, the name changed from a two word form to the present and in 1921 the book became an annual being printed only for end of the year distribution.

Physically the high school too underwent some dramatic changes. In 1937 Rock Island High School had moved to its present site on the hill and the 1910 building soon became the home of Central Junior High. It remained in that capacity until destroyed by fire over Christmas vacation in 1949.

Over the years there have been many changes not only in our community but also in our schools. But one common thread runs throughout the story and that is of the pride that we have for all of the young people who have attended Rock Island High School.

Mr. A. J. Burton, principal of Rock Island High School, 1910.

Mr. John Murphy, with his sons John and Michael, principal of Rock Island High School, 1985.

Danger was added to Marci Hotchkiss' baton routine during the Homecoming Field Show.

Rockin' Thru Time

The excitement rose as the Homecoming court Brian Cady, Lane Collie, Kyle Collins, Ted Dasso, Bret Gibbons, Jeff Murphy, William Clay, Linda Burkhead, Corinna Washington, Cathy Larson, Beth Hass, Prudence Green, Barb Eagle, Colette Chickris awaited the crowning of the King and Queen.

King Kyle Collins and Queen Cathy Larson rode in splendor during the Homecoming Parade.

First place went to the Freshmen with their float theme "Maroonbusters."

The Sophomore float won second place honors with its theme of "Rock-n-Roll 'Em."

Maureen Coogan smiles in anticipation of her first Homecoming parade at Rocky. She displays her theme button as well as the traditional mum before the event.

Cheerleaders; Brad Sutter, Pat Carroll, Chuck Burgner, Mark Zwicker, Pat Elder, Matt Dietrich.

Overflowing With Spirit And Fun

Homecoming week carried spirit and fun into the halls of Rocky. Many action packed events such as pyramid building, three-legged-flipper races and tricycle races brought screams of laughter from on-looking students. To top off the week a test of strength in the tug-a-war between junior and senior girls produced a surprising victory for the juniors.

Students also had the chance to dress up as nerds, in hats and shades and Halloween costumes. The climax of spirit week brought a sea of red and gold to the Field House for the Homecoming assembly.

Reigning over the assembly and parade were King and Queen, Kyle Collins and Cathy Larson and Prince and Princess, Ted Dasso and Corrina Washington.

"Maroonbusters", a rendition from the popular song, "Ghostbusters", decorated the sides of the winning Freshmen float. Second place was awarded to the sophomore class as the seniors and juniors took third and fourth places respectively.

Clowns, the candy throwing jesters, were undoubtedly among the crowds favorites during the parade. Another crowd pleaser was a dance group made up of Michael Jackson fans, dancing to the beat of "Thriller".

The football team was triumphant in a well fought battle against Moline. It was only after two exciting over-times that Rocky finally over powered the Maroons to claim a well deserved victory.

Homecoming reached its peak with the long awaited night of dancing, frolicing and partying. This festive spirit was evident as the students entered the girls' gym ready to "Rock thru time".

Scott Sims wonders if this is what float building is all about.

Special activities added a bit of excitement to lunch during Homecoming week. Pete Schulte and Kelly Fairman seemed to be having a good time with the three-legged flipper race.

Pyramid building offered a welcome relief from the monotony of the regular lunch routine.

Participating in a new sport at Rocky, Mike Willfong, attempted to block the ball.

With a look of determination, Kyle Collins prepared to sink a shot.

Happiness at winning the 400 medley relay was evident in the smiles of Christy Anderson, Julie Gripp, Kim Warren and Cathy Larson.

Perfect softball form is evident as Chris Andre thinks about hitting a home run.

It takes patience and skill to line up the perfect putt. Vickie McCleary's good scores proved she has the skill.

After connecting with the ball, Dave Larson prepared to sprint toward first base.

A sea of red and gold followed leader Jose Salazar in the mile event.

A Tribute To Sports A Color Celebration

Nineteen varsity sports are available at Rock Island High School and are nearly evenly divided between men's and women's activities. These sports at one time or another involved over twenty percent of Rocky's student population. From the first sultry weeks of August until the early weeks of June, locker rooms, courts, fields and gymnasiums resounded with the firm tread of Rocky students honing their competitive skills.

On this page you will find pictures of student athletes and of sporting events which unfortunately did not always receive their just due largely because of the lateness of their respective playing seasons or lack of yearbook space requirements. Consider this if you will a tribute to all Rocky athletes as well as to the teams they represent.

Tina Jett darted out of the starting blocks to gain the lead she desired.

Working Hard For The Money

"Burring." The bell that signals the end of the school day rang. But not all students lingered to chat with friends or to go out for an after school snack. Many rushed to finish homework assignments in what little time they had before they dashed off to work.

A large percentage of Rocky students held a variety of part time jobs that ranged from fast food restaurants, clothing stores and service stations to employment at the cinemas. Age didn't stop underclassmen from entering the working scene. They proved doing odd jobs around the neighborhood could keep them in spending money also.

Many students claimed having an after school job helped them save for college expenses or down payments and upkeep on cars. They also said it came in handy for buying up-to-date fashions and extra spending money for dates or going to the movies and out to eat. Most felt that the experience as well as the paycheck was very valuable.

One of Sharon Shaffer's many tasks at Southpark Happy Joe's was ringing up the cash register.

Jane Coogan seems very content with her job at Sheffield Gold.

Pumping gas was just one of the duties carried out by Terry Tobias during his working hours at Bill's Corner Station.

Odd jobs were sometimes necessary for those who were not old enough to work. Jason Lagerblade and Scott Nelson rely on raking leaves for extra cash.

Monsters and ghosts lurked in the shadows at Jason Foy's unique place of employment, Chippiannock Cemetery.

Paula Huntley flashed a smile to a customer as she explained today's fashions at Ups and Downs.

Nanette Wilson and Edie Colburn took time from their busy schedule to show us their boss, Ronald McDonald.

As the sun set upon another summer, students prepared to put away summer activities and make the transition to more serious things.

After participation in the Milan Queen Contest Michelle Keller, 1984 winner, posed with Angie Hunt, a contestant and Candy Muse a former queen.

Michelle Yost taught basic soccer techniques to five and six year olds this past season.

Quad City band members helped in the development of the Active 8 commercial filmed on the Mississippi Belle. Being seen on television daily helped promote Rocky's band.

After many years of driving over a washboard road, Rocky students returned to school in the fall to find smooth riding for a delightful change.

Taking a spin on the Merry-go-round before they had to hit the books were Vicki McCleary, Stacy Wahe, Dannette Seward and Angie Roman.

Being A Part Of The Community

Summer seemed to be like a bridge between years when we got off the merry-go-round to seek familiar places, even though they had undergone some cosmetic changes.

It was a time to step back and remember the fun of summer, when we worked vigorously to raise money for the Queen Contest or made possible the youth soccer program.

As school got off to a good start, the Mississippi Belle united many Quad-City band members, as a whole, to spread hope and happiness to the Quad Cities during the Active 8 commercial.

Across the miles, into the horizon may the sun never set on our future or upon our dreams.

Passing the time by looking at a magazine, Carla Butler patiently waited for Sheila Johnson to finish her phone conversation.

Early arriving students were often seen sitting in line by the parking lot before the morning bell rang.

Many activities enticed Rocky students to participate in Homecoming week, such as the powder puff tug-a-war between the Junior and Senior girls.

Band members formed a straight lined tunnel for the football players to run through during a pre-game performance.

They Fill Our Days With Waiting

Lines made a constant appearance in our everyday lives at Rocky. Actually it was lines that shaped most of our days.

The lines of cars depositing their human cargo each morning was just the start. Rocky students walked in lines in the hallways, sat in lines during class, stood in lines at lunch, waited in lines for sporting tickets and ran in lines for gym.

The Watchtower staff was confronted by a multitude of lines. Lines of copy, lines of pictures, lines of advertisers and lines to be drawn for layouts.

Participants in sports all knew about lines. Baseball players sat in lines in the dug out, football players exercised in lines and came running into the football stadium in one big line, and runners started races in lines.

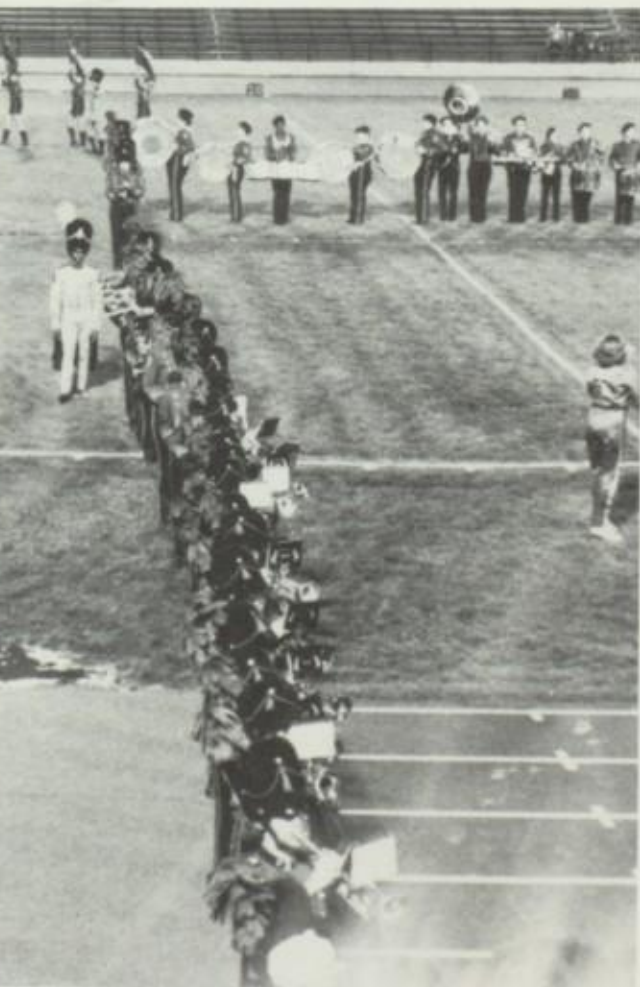

As it is clear to see a large portion of each day was spent standing in lines. Lines are a fact of life. So remember the next time a line seems endless, it probably is.

Lines crept into the everyday activity of lunch. Junior girls shared moments of gossip and even took time to eat.

Actors and actresses stood in another form of line. Rick Zesser, Todd Simmer, Pat Elder, David Slivken, Steve Hudson and Angie Roman showed off their talent in a scene from "Bernardine."

Long lines were typical during registration. Erika Engman and Jared Harvey patiently waited to get their class schedule.

Seniors Reign Came To A Close

After four years at Rocky together, seniors left with many mixed emotions. They were naturally eager to come to a successful end of their thirteen years of public education. Jobs and college plans were discussed as the year drew to a close.

Tears of both sadness and joy adorned many faces during the final weeks of school, for the realization of the long awaited day had arrived. Knowing those high school days could never be replaced, the memories held a special warmth in the hearts and minds of our graduates.

The musical group Gypsy provided exciting up-to-date tunes for the prom.

Some of the seniors who took the option of early graduation were Sa Tosa Phillips, Dana Foy, Angie Reading and Ted Dasso.

Before heading out for their last high school activity, graduation ceremonies, Kathi Moran, Kelli DeMarlie, Scott Young, William Wheatly and Tina Jett pose for a quick photograph.

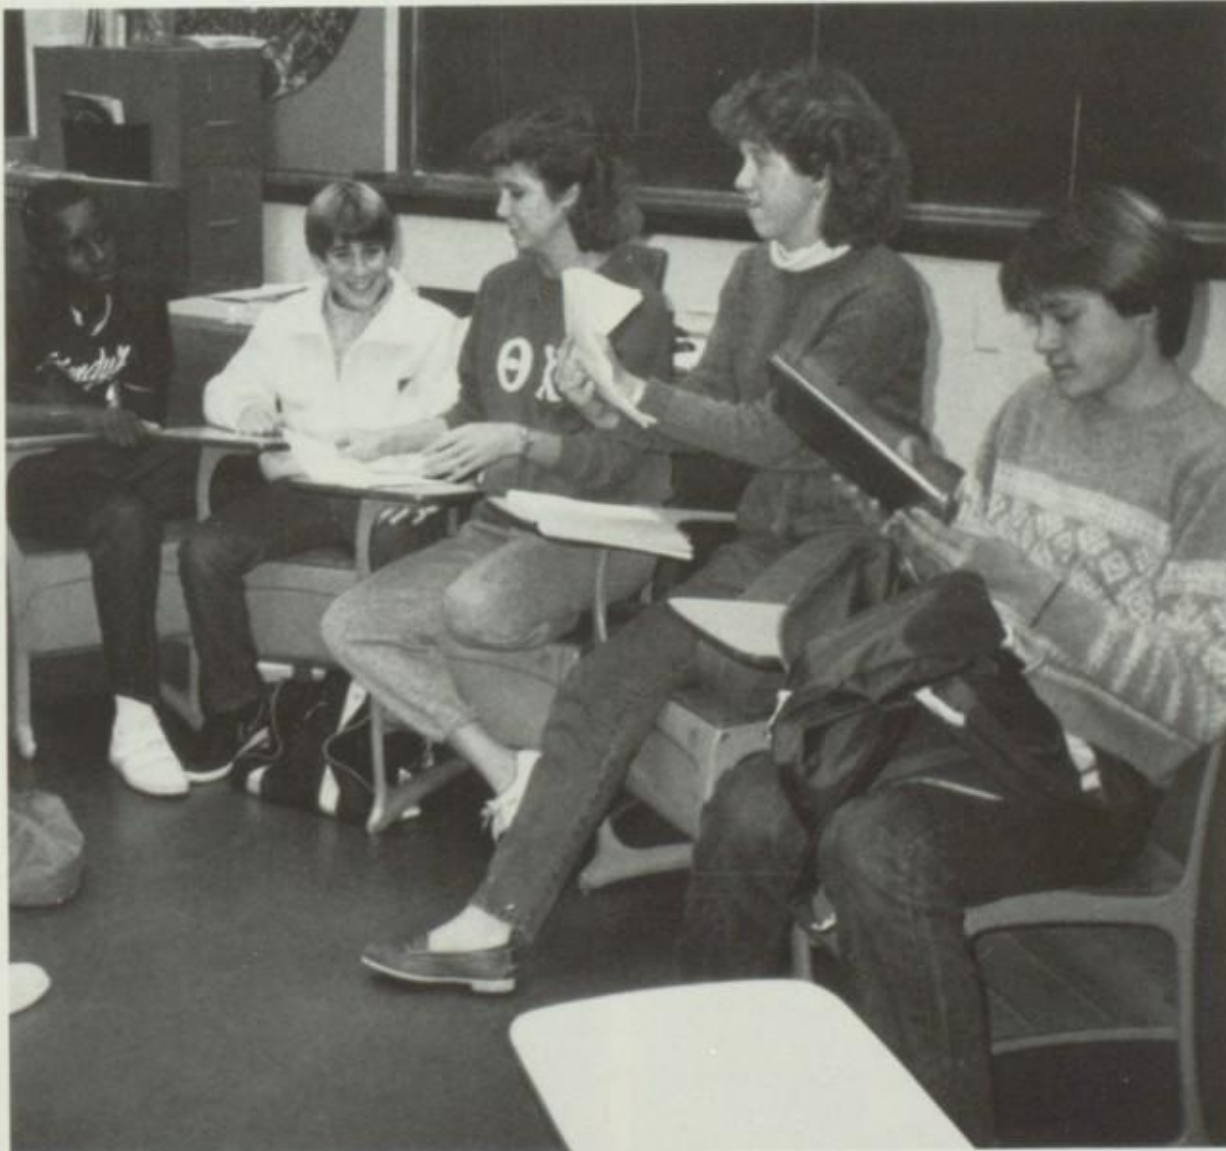

Amanda Shultz and Eric Plutz take time out from dancing to enjoy a glass of punch.

Thinking ahead to the future, Kathy Boyd, Jenny Leleonek, Jamie Van Hook, Sharon Renneke, Michael Stearns and Jeff Hart all sat around and discussed the future.

Working extra hard to improve their grades, with the aid of Paula Huntly, and Leslie Lynn, were Raymond Jackson, Cary David and Sean Flaherty.

Psychedelic Colors, Plaids And Trivia Fads And Fashions Come And Go

Through the years at Rock Island High School there have been many changes, but none so noticeable as the different styles in hair, clothing and accessories.

The numerous fashions at Rocky seemed to go back in time this year. Styles from the 50's and 60's slowly found their way back into the hallways of the school. Jean jackets, psychedelic colors, cropped pants and narrow ties and belts were a few of the returning fads.

The most popular wear for girls was still the jeans and sweater combinations. The difference came in lengths and sizes. What was once considered high water pants and embarrassing was in style for 1985. The tight high neck sweaters of the past gave way to large, low cut baggy knits. Rocky men wore heavy sweaters in bold, bright colors and geometrical designs.

To complete any outfit the wearer had to take jewelry and shoes into consideration also. Large chunky items in all shapes, colors and textures bent many students' jewelry budgets this season. Sneakers certainly lost favor and the low leather flats, penny loafers and the traditional pumps in many colors were musts to complete any fashion conscious student's wardrobe.

Playing trivia games proved to be a source of both fun and learning as Anne Romeo, Mike Cady, Nick Roberts and Jennifer Bills found out.

Preppy is the word to use in describing Marcy Hotchkiss' style of dress.

Casual is what Eric Levin's Levi's, cotton shirt and tennis shoes say.

Lori Kirgan learned to dress for success.

Sunglasses at night, in the morning and in the afternoon were popular with many students at Rocky. Debbie Styx shows her preference in sun protection.

"Tails" added a bit of excitement to a short hair-cut. Gloria Nache shows off her new style.

Punk describes Pam Brandel's mode of dress.

Candie Hinze feels comfortable in her sporty sweats.

Tonya Bibbs calls her look semi-casual.

Concerts-Dances

Favorite Scenes And Pasttimes

Whammo! The lights go dead, two yellow florescent light beams roam wrecklessly over the stage. Smoke rises from below and at center stage, leather clad bodies appear jumping and twisting to the hard-driving beat.

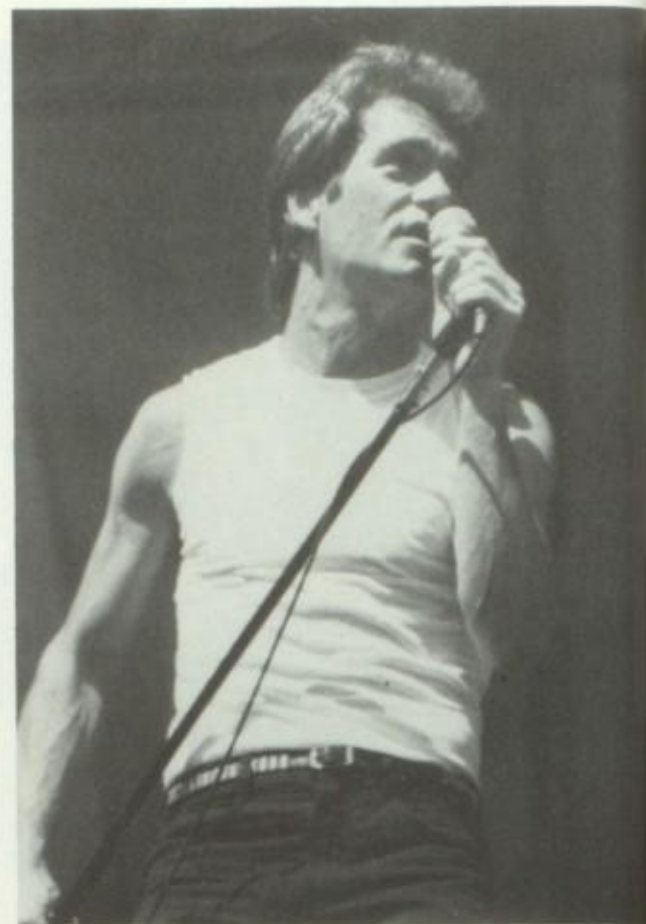

Concerts, aside from MTV, offered a chance to see your favorite performers. Several big name groups trudged through the mid-west, making their appearance at the Five Season's Center, Palmer Auditorium and the Peoria Civic Center. Billy Idol, Chicago, Prince, Twisted Sister and Kiss were just a few giving area concerts.

Slow dancing with a special person was still the favorite of high school teens. Rolling, kicking and sliding across the floor came in second in the form of break dancing. Whether slow dancing or break dancing was your style, the opportunity to show off your dancing skill was high at the many different dances. Three major dances were held, starting the year was "Rocking thru-time," at the homecoming dance. Later in the year girls did the asking out and took that special someone to Swirl. The year ended with Prom, the dance many students had dreamed of since they were freshmen. Along with the three major dances, several after-game dances were held by the different school clubs.

Music played a major part in student lives whether they were singing along with their favorite group at a concert or dancing the night away with someone special.

Many Rocky students found their way to Palmer Auditorium to see Huey Lewis in concert.

Rappin' and poppin', New York rolled off the hits at a post-game dance sponsored by Office Occupation.

Wearing concert T-shirts was always fun, especially if you have seen one live. Loya DePooter and Kelly Dawson show off their Duran Duran shirts.

Everybody loves to dance. That certainly was evident by the actions and expressions of this group of dance goers.

The "Harvest Hoe Down" dance was the time for Bob Lelonek to go a bit risque in his attire.

Posing with Warren DeMartini of the band Ratt puts a smile on Megan Rickey's face.

A senate sponsored dance was the perfect place for Matt Dietrich to do a little showing off.

The Homecoming Dance was the perfect opportunity for Dane Hallberg to dance with Roxanne Fields.

After enjoying a Saturday afternoon pizza, Dan Knittle, John Lewarne and Chip Gass are ready for the night ahead.

Extra conditioning always helps as David Carr and Drake Nelson enjoy a Sunday morning run.

Counting Down The Days Weekend On The Rocks

Everyone had his own way to enjoy the short weekend break from school. Whether it was a quiet night at home watching television, going out for a shopping trip or just gathering a few friends together, weekends provided a chance to relax and enjoy.

Parties proved to be the ideal place to get together with friends. Parties were held for everything from birthdays to holidays. There were luaus, bashes, and to-gas. Students found almost any reason to have a party.

Spectators showed school spirit and pride in Rocky. The many sporting events brought echoes of cheers as everyone rooted the Rocks on to victory.

Recently the traditional roles of dating reversed when guys weren't the only ones doing the asking. You could often hear a girl ask a guy out for a date. What better way to spend the weekend than with the girl or guy of your dreams.

Weekends also gave students and teachers a chance to catch up on sleep lost on late night cram sessions grading papers or getting up before the sun for early bird classes.

However they chose to spend their weekend, students and teachers alike were sorry to have it end. Mondays started the countdown of days and the planning for the weekend ahead, five long days away.

Football games proved to be a popular meeting place during fall weekends.

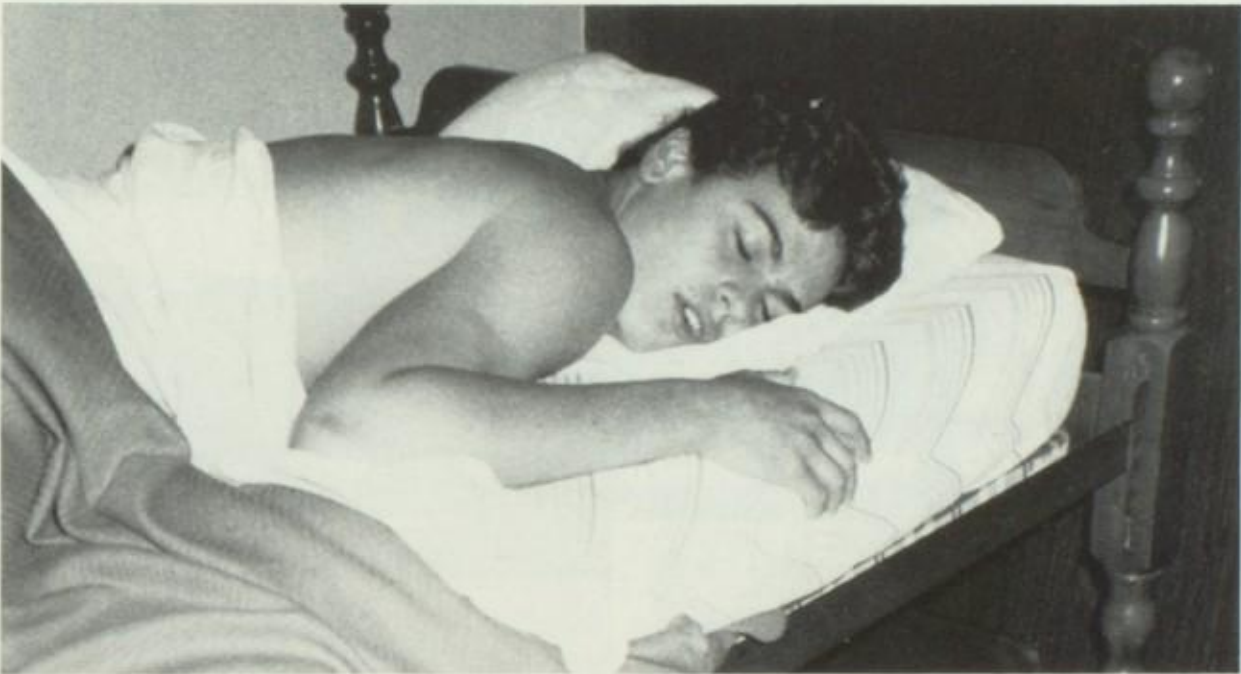

Nothing but smiles are on the faces of Andy Gray and Ann DePew during another wild get together.

Todd Sebben finds Saturday morning the perfect time to catch up on sleep lost during the hectic weekdays.

Rocky Remembers

A Year In Pictures

Quad City Economy, What's Next?

Unemployment has been the main cause for the economic downswing in the Quad Cities. The closing of the Rock Island Farmall plant forced many unemployed Quad Citizens to leave the area to look for work. Many small businesses suffered from the economy and unemployment.

After 114 years the closing of McCabe's department store was a major shock to the public proving the area was headed down hill.

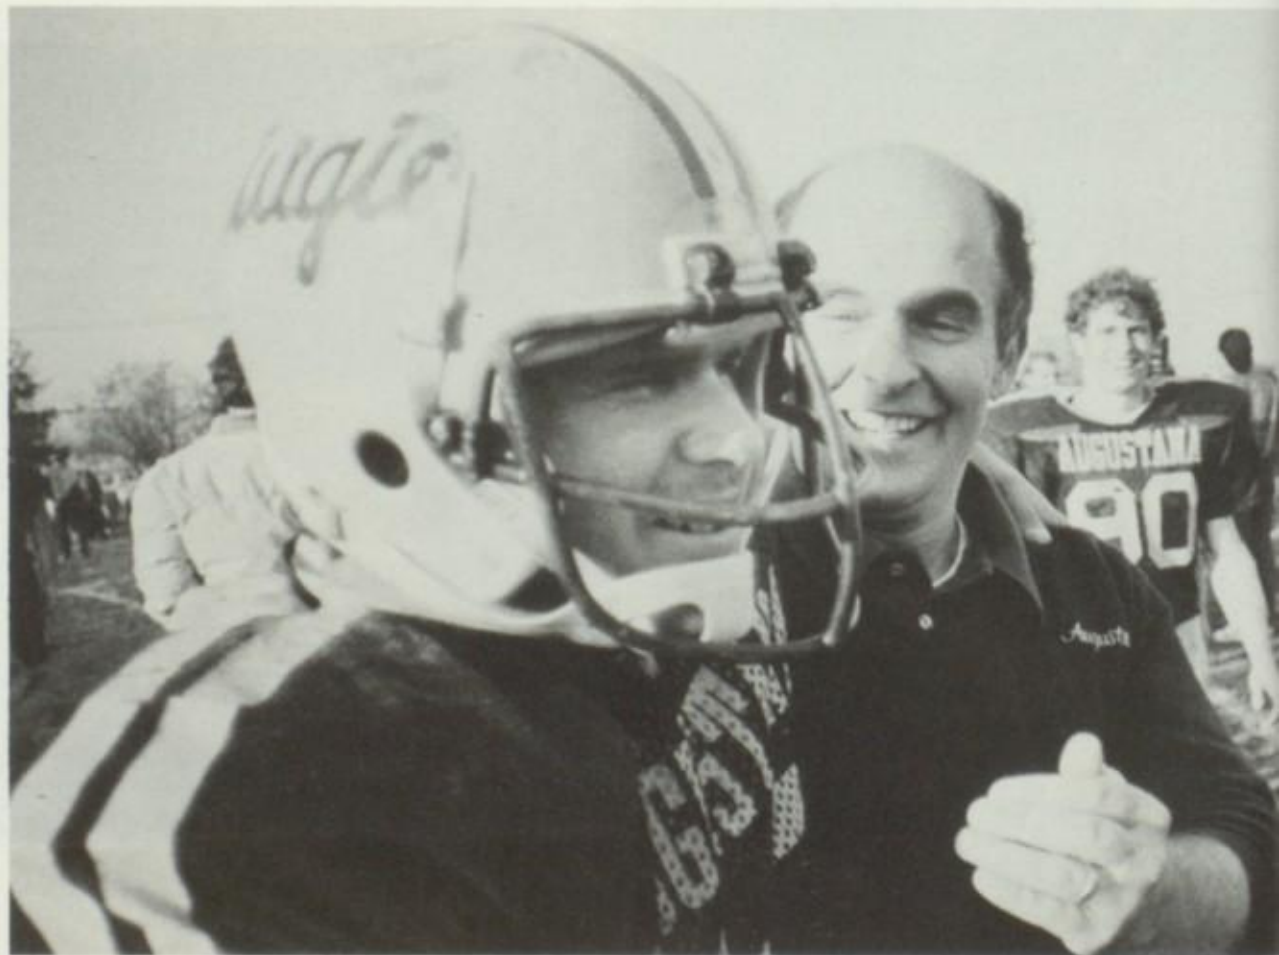

Although many people have or will be forced to leave, there will always be those who stay and fight for a better local economy and to help the Quad Cities grow.

Cub Fever

They never made me nervous in the good old days. I always knew where I stood. My team was the champion underdog, a consistent loser. The sky was always blue and wind always blew out over the left field ivy-clad wall. I was happy if there were just one or two Cub homers.

But like I said, now I'm biting my fingernails. They are winners, they're for real. National League East Champions', has a nice ring to it. The only problem is, I now expect them to win, no more dreams or fantasies. It's really kind of scary.

Women's Movement Stepping Ahead

Rocky

Senior girls showed a united front to their junior foe before the homecoming tug-of-war event.

Many college representatives came to Rocky during the year to talk with seniors like Aaron Ligon and Sergio Villarreal.

Senior Dean Peter Nyman always had a smile for his charges.

Lynn Carstens, Kim Epperly and Kari Granger purchased special sweatshirts to proclaim their year of graduation

A Little More Class

Up until four years earlier, the freshmen had gone to either Rocky West or East and then joined together in their sophomore year at the Main Campus. But along with the many changes over the years, this tradition ceased and freshmen began making their appearance in the high school. This year's graduating class was the first for the new tradition and as the yearbook theme of that year said, they added "a little more class."

The growth in school spirit and pride was noticeable as the numbers in attendance at sporting events grew, not to mention the sizable accomplishments our athletes had achieved. In addition to sports, the drive for better education and grades increased. The National Honor Society had enlarged and more underclassmen were being admitted.

This first group to graduate from this school after spending four years of their lives here, can certainly be proud of their time spent, the achievements they accomplished and the friendships they made.

Senior Jim Gripp claims his life is based around swimming and you have to believe him when you see how much time he spends in and around the water.

Jim was a senior co-captain of the boys' swim team and at the same time a member of the Rock Island Y.M.C.A. swim team. Jim spent his gym periods sharing his swimming skills with gym students learning to swim. Between Rocky and the Y Jim spends over 25 hours a week in the pool. Those hours don't include the many others that he puts in as a lifeguard at the Y and Aqualetic Club.

Jim has been swimming since he was four years old. When asked if he ever got tired of swimming he said jokingly, "yes, at 6:30 A.M. every morning."

Hard Work Paid Off

Quill and Scroll was organized April 10, 1926 for the sole purpose of encouraging and rewarding student achievements in journalistic writing, editing and publishing. Students who were active in journalism and school publications received recognition for their outstanding work. Quill and Scroll is the only international honor society for high school journalists.

In order to qualify for membership in Quill and Scroll, one must be a junior or senior, be in the upper third of their class, be active in journalism for two years and hold a responsible position on the staff of the newspaper or the yearbook. The advisor of the publications then submits the names of all students meeting these guidelines to the national organization for membership. Each student that is accepted receives a pin, membership certificate and a subscription to the organizations magazine.

Alike, But Different

Other than being called the wrong name or getting blamed for something the other one did, the five sets of twins said there are not many disadvantages of being a twin. Clara and Sharon Archie, Anthony and Jacqueline Harris, Anita and Bonita Berry, Lisa and Rhonda Forbes, and Hanh and Phuoc Pham are the five sets of twins in the senior class.

Anita Berry said, "The advantages of being a twin greatly outweigh the disadvantages." Among the advantages are having someone to talk to and to help each other do homework. Someone to do things with and to share clothes with too! You'll always have a friend - a great friend!

The tendency to have twins is hereditary. Twins occur once in every 87 births. All of the sets of twins but one have relatives that are twins. Four of the five are identical and the other set is fraternal. All of these seniors really like being a twin. They try to impersonate each other and have a good time fooling people. One said, "It's really a lot of fun!"

The five pairs of twins are Jacqueline and Anthony Harris, Anita and Bonita Berry, Sharon and Clara Archie, Lisa and Rhonda Forbes, and Hanh and Phuoc Pham.

Not Twins - Not Sisters

Jill Ann Marx

Ginette Mathis

Although they look similar, have the same last name and are often found together, Sharron and Jessica Lee are not twins or even sisters, but close cousins. Sharron said, "Aside from the people we grew up with, friends and teachers often confuse me for Jessica or Jessica for me."

Both Jessica and Sharron led active lives. Sharron played basketball for four years, three of which she played varsity, and ran in track for four years, three years on varsity. She was a Letterman, in the National Honor Society, and a member of Pan Am for four years. In addition she was a Black Student Union member for two years. Sharron was also one of the few who can say she went to school everyday from kindergarten to eleventh grade.

Jessica was on the basketball team for three years, her junior year on varsity, and participated in track for one year. Earning money appealed more to Jessica and she dropped her career in sports to join the work program. Although both the girls were busy, they still found time to be with each other. "I don't think we spent an unusual amount of time together, we enjoy being with each other and are very close."

One Step Ahead

Getting a head start on their futures, four senior girls attended Cele Whan Academy of Beauty. Although having a shortened day sounded ideal, it did have its disadvantages. Because they only went to school for the first three periods, they were not able to attend pep rallies, club meetings and other after school activities.

The four would head off to the Academy everyday, except Mondays, that helped Monday seem more bearable, from 1:00 to 4:00 P.M. and learned how to give manicures, hair cuts, permanents and hair coloring. But what they learned best was how to work and get along with others. "We became a close-kint family with the other students from East Moline and Rockridge," said Selena Castle. Along with Selena, Ressa Hakanson, Chris Owen and Shidell Watts also attend the Cele Whan Academy.

Battle For The Top

The competition was fierce when the seventh semester grades were being figured. The grade point averages of the top five seniors were unbearably close and the wait for the naming of the Valedictorian and the Salutatorian became an agonizing period. The five competing for the two honors were Leslie Lynn, Peter Papas, Colette Chickris, Kelly Yeocum, and Marty Dennis. Colette was named Valedictorian and Marty Salutatorian but all were to be commended for their outstanding efforts.

Fun - Work And Hobby

Imagine this, after he spent 13 years painting and drawing in whatever spare time he had, Richard Hansen is now being labeled as a promising young artist. How does Rich react to this title? "I never thought I was that good, I draw because I like to, it's a hobby."

Rich's first remembrance of drawing was in kindergarten, where he received a lot of encouragement from his teacher and friends. He mainly looked at magazines and photos and then sketched what he saw. But now with more imagination and skill aquired from his art classes, at Rocky. When the sketch involves nature and people, he takes pictures to capture exactly what he wants.

One of his favorite drawings was of an eagle, done in ebony. This picture also won a top award in the Quad City Art Council Show. Drawing and painting is what Rich likes best because they are easier and come more naturally to him.

Planning for the future, Rich hopes to become a commercial artist with his special interest in advertising and bill boards.

As seen here, Rich Hansen's favorite subjects to draw were nature and people.

Creative Talents Flow

Many Varied Courses Offered

Beginning some 20 years ago in an old home economics' classroom with only three course offerings, both Mr. Klatt and Mr. White could be said to have been present at the creation. The third floor art complex as it exists today was designed by both White and Klatt. It realistically consists of three rooms opened up into one large work area. Equipped with kilns, asetiline torches, potter's wheels and weaving looms, the art complex is a delightful place to hone one's artistic skills in a diverse array of mediums. The complex literally bombards one with artistic stimuli. Mobiles, "objects de art" and displayed student work leave no doubt in anyone's mind as to where they are.

Today's student may start with Art Forms. After passing this basic course, he may then move to Studio Art where the students plan their own project contracts. They learn to work quietly and independently.

Studio Art is also an elective course. Because there is no distinction between successive studio art classes, students are permitted to develop their own artistic skills. With a teacher's recommendation the serious art student may register for more than one studio class per semester if his schedule permits.

Art Ideas is an elective one semester class which may be taken if the student has already taken at least two Art Studio classes. This class provides insight and preparation for professional art school or college. Here students can prepare a portfolio of their work for college or professional use.

Chris Poma puts the finishing touches on one of the many wall murals with which art students have decorated Rocky's halls.

One of the prize possessions of the art department is its weaving loom. Mr. White and Mr. Klatt show Tracy Tucker, Eric Loveless and Corey Overturf the complications of setting up the machine.

Doing the background to her dog's portrait is a time consuming final touch for Lori Kirgan.

Daily practice in second hour class made good musical sounds for those big concerts. Rachel Carroll, Sharon Newswander, Terri Barman, Mary Beth Udy, Leunna Hayes, Amanda Schultz, Belinda Blackburn, Lynn Stanley, Kevin Kirkbride and Dane Hallberg are intent upon Mrs. Klinger's directions.

As a new teacher at Rocky, Mrs. Dorothy Klinger brings much musical talent and new ideas to her department.

Music Showcasing Talent

It's hard to believe but 75 years ago there was no Glee club or even a choral music class. In fact the principal led the high school orchestra.

In 1985 sounds of singing could be heard coming from the music room during first and second periods everyday. Mrs. Klinger was responsible for the two periods of music taught each day and brought her students to performance perfection in time for the holidays' seasonal concerts.

Daily classes always started with singing the scales and various other vocal exercises. This preceded the rehearsal of seasonal and classical pieces. These harmonious lyrics often times filled the halls of second floor north with a welcome musical background for nearby classrooms.

First period class was considered the mixed glee with the only requirement being an enjoyment of music and a desire to sing. Second period class consisted of concert glee. Students had to audition for entrance into this group. Two other smaller groups, Swing Choir and Madrigal, were chosen from the concert class.

The second hour concert glee group poses with smiles just before they filmed a television show at WOC in Davenport. ## Shaping up for life

Good Habits Stay With You

This year's physical education and health classes strove to educate Rocky students in the fundamentals for longer, healthier lives.

Physical education classes have come a long way in 75 years. No longer are sports classified "strictly for boys" or "strictly for girls". Today, both participate in a wide variety of sports during the school year. Students participated in golf, tennis, track and swimming during the spring. They also practiced their skills in volleyball, basketball, gymnastics and weightlifting during the winter.

During the school year sophomores were placed in a health class for one semester. Seventy-five years ago health education in school was a touchy subject. Today, students learn a host of things like CPR, drug abuse, alcoholism, sex education and hygiene.

Practicing their newly found first aid skills were Jason Setser, Don Jacob, and Vincent Pore.

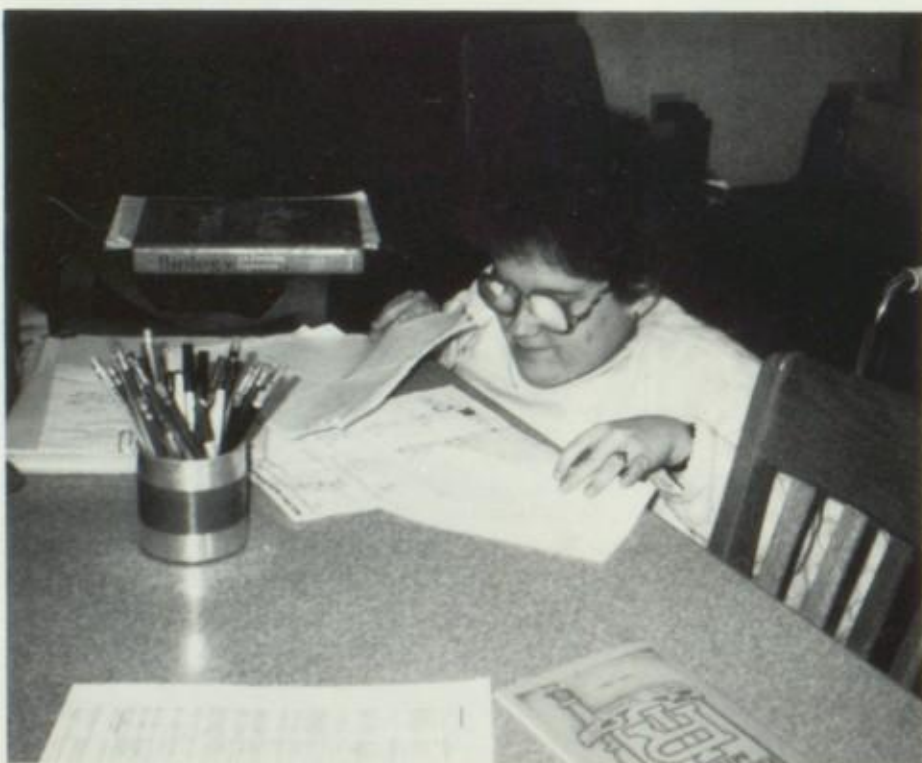

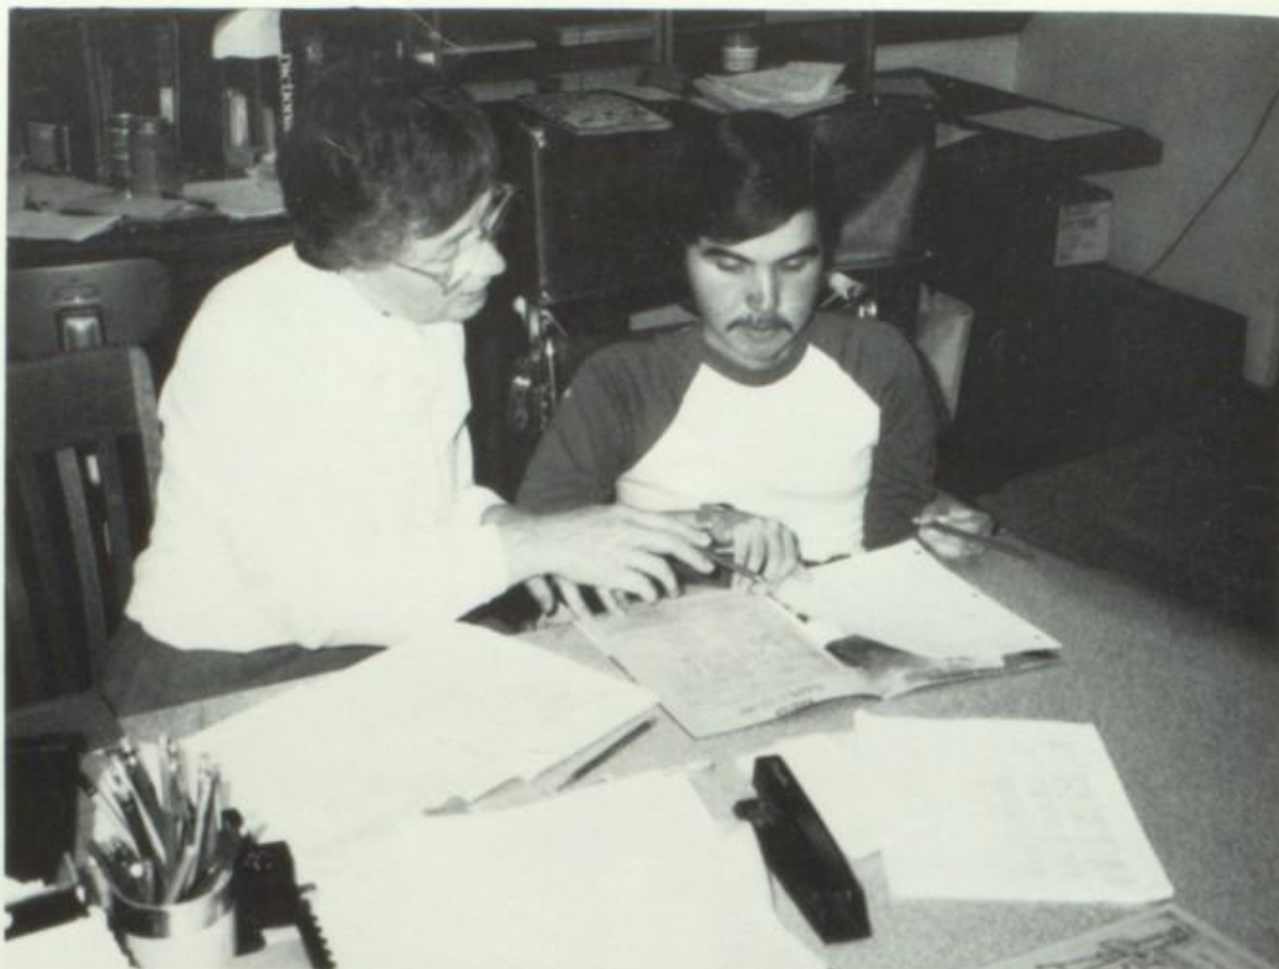

Swimming can be fun and relaxing Stacey Gipe tells Lezlie Mickelson.

Health education teachers Allen Gorgal, Bill Burris and Fred Friedrichsen.

Mrs. Mary Welling and Jerry Stafford do some intensive review work before finals.

Going to the library to get some special computer instructions from Eric Gehr is enjoyable and helpful for Wendy Behrens.

Special People - Special Challenges Programs For Everyone

The Physically Handicapped/Multiply Handicapped Program at Rock Island High School is an interdistrict program which serves the high school age PH/MH and health impaired students from all the school districts in the Black Hawk Area Special Education District. The general objective of this program is to provide the necessary evaluation of academic and functional physical abilities, identification of needs and implementation of appropriate academic or remedial programs for all the referred students.

The students in the Physically Handicapped Skills class are afforded the opportunities to work on skills that meet their needs and interests. Basic typing, computer, and word processing skills are offered as well as attention to individual academic needs. This class also acts as a liaison between and a support system for teachers who have PH/MH students.

The Adaptive Physical Education class is for those students who, because of one or more physical disabilities, are unable to participate in the regular physical education classes. Major emphasis in the Adaptive P.E. class is on cardiovascular fitness, low organized games, recreational sports, and the appropriate aspects of physical and occupational therapy.

Cooking, Sewing, Child Care Practical Training For The Future

Did you ever wish you could prepare a meal, go to school and work at the same time or meet many interesting people? Well these are just a few of the things that home economics did for you.

The basic goal of the home economics teachers was to prepare the students for the practical world of cooking, sewing and child care that most would meet in their daily lives. However, the home economics department has branched out to introduce students to various professional areas. Careers in interior design, clothing merchandising, fashion design, foods and day care were just some of the occupations examined. Some of these classes led students into the work program where they attended Rocky in the morning and filled a job in the afternoon.

The home economics department was a fun, practical, and at times exciting place to be. The staff would like to see many more students enjoy its offerings.

Carol Estel was just clowning around when she read story books to smaller children.

Small children liked to play duck-duck goose with Nadine Kramer while Teri Bunch and Teri Chipman waited patiently.

Parent Teacher conferences were a new thing at Rocky this year. Mrs. Hughes took the opportunity to discuss a student's grade with his mother.

Monica Growe and Christine Berry took turns reciting their new German vocabulary words.

Miss Bowman explains the assignments to Jennifer McCart.

Along with the three different foreign language classes were a variety of new text books.

Three Foreign Languages

Lend Fun And Variety To Studies

Over half the students participated in it, though for many different reasons, all gained something from the experience. What was it? An understanding of a foreign language.

Enrollment was high and interest was great in the three different foreign languages offered. Spanish was the most popular followed by French and then German.

The reasons for taking a foreign language varied with almost every person. Some took it for a better understanding of English. If you are wondering how a foreign language could help you understand English it is because students became more aware of correct forms when compared to another language. Others looked to the future and took a foreign language for easier job or college placement after graduation. Still other students took one of the classes to better understand the background of their families. There were even a few students who took a second language just for an easy grade, they said.

Whatever the reason was most who took a foreign language class chose to take more than one year. Many students even studied a second language all four years of high school with the fourth year being a weighted class.

Spanish students Anne Cudworth, Richard Murga and Mary Udy posed with visiting Spanish dancers.

Flashing universal smiles were foreign language teachers Mildred Meersman, Marijane Bowman, Clara Tsagaris and Mike Herrera.

Mr. Koch gave Andy Gray a few pointers on football while Debbie Williams and Ruby Victor voiced their opinions. Kim Robinson ran her daily rounds.

Need help? Florence Simmon and Audreen Herrera were always ready to help students in the library.

While Toni Green and Sonya Davis gave their demonstration speech Patty Collins whispered her impressions to Tracie Stombaugh.

Although research reports were hard work, Melanie Epperly, Cindy Burke and Debbie Styx shared a friendly smile.

Students learned through visual concept and hearing as Mr. Milton read from "The Odyssey."

English . . . A Required Class Offers Many Choices

English students were offered a year full of variety at the Rock. All students were required to take English in order to complete their four year requirement for graduation. Everything from humorous essays to death were represented throughout the year.

Plays were a big thing in almost all of the English classes. Introductions to the play, how the play works and the background of the writer were discussed prior to the play's presentation. College English students had the opportunity last fall to attend "McBeth" in Iowa City, and then again this spring during the Shakespeare Festival.

Advanced English students wrote novels and expressed their views on which author inspired their writings. Individualized Reading students read book after book after book. Journalism I and II students studied details on the correct manuscript form to produce a newspaper and a yearbook. Composition students learned to write with style. Mythology classes read and told stories. With the variety offered in this department, every Rocky student found something of interest to fulfill their requirements.

Mrs. Glynn found distributing grades a happy moment for Kerry Scudder, Averis Wright and Nick Warner.

Studying Folk Art gave Gwyn Dorman, Lily Lee, Stacey Howe, Glenn Hopson, Denise Wiederker and Tien Hoang an opportunity to show off their hand made items.

Terry McGee inserts humor as he tries to persuade his fellow classmates to buy a certain brand of toilet paper, his own - "McGee T.P."

Becky Griffiths finds that her accuracy for better grades comes faster and easier if she uses her handy calculator.

Learning all the "dos and don'ts" of typing will help Kasandra Brooks type her homework and perhaps even get a nice secretarial job.

Math teacher, Mary Lou McLaughlin likes giving individual help to David Putnam and Darren Swartz.

Freshmen Monica Growe and Angela Margan like the freedom of working together that is sometimes offered at high school.

Bookkeeping was much easier for Angie Lindahl after she became proficient with the adding machine and learned to double check the tape for errors.

Raised Requirements

Math-Business Classes Grew

Math and business education classes prepared Rocky students for the realities of everyday living. No matter what the occupation, important skills were taught in those areas. This year the math program had a steadily increasing enrollment. Students were beginning to realize just how important math was to their future.

A major reason for the increase in the math department was that graduation requirements for freshman were raised from one year of high school math to two years. A second reason was that state colleges were requiring at least Geometry or Algebra I for enrollment. Many students took this into consideration when picking their courses. There was a wide variety of classes from which to choose ranging from basic math through calculus.

With the thought of graduation and college entrance requirements in mind, many students took a broader interest in math in 1985.

Industrious Students Experiment With The Vocational Arts

The soft hum of a distant table saw and the sweet aroma of cherry wood being freshly cut into board feet. The constant presence of sawdust as students sanded their wooden parts for a yet unfinished rocker. The liquid orange splash of a welding torch as one of Mr. Gerber's students made a needed school repair. Oil and paint, stuck valves and bald tires colored the life of a school within a school along with the constant pleas of lost safety glasses, requests for two more needed hours to finish a paint job or the need for a quick trip to Strums for the right set of plugs.

These sights, sounds and smells were found at the end of the first floor south and in the vocational education building found at the west end of the quadrangle. Here were taught woods, auto body, auto mechanics and welding.

These industrial classes helped students in many ways. The two hour time bloc and the large work area appealed to many.

This program showed that Rocky didn't just consist of formal classroom studies. There was something for everyone. Here students learned a skill or a trade that would help them in years far beyond their formal schooling.

Wide Variety Of Choices Offered By Science

Balancing equations, dissecting frogs and working with genetics were just parts of the many courses offered by the Rock Island High School science department.

Students were required to take one credit of either biology or physical science by their junior year. After that they had a wide variety of classes from which to choose if they wanted to further their scientific knowledge.

The science department offered something for almost everyone. Classes ranged from basic science to advanced physics. If airplanes and space were your thing, you might have aeronautics squeezed into your schedule. If you enjoyed playing the role of mad scientist, you might find yourself in a chemistry class mixing chemicals. Biology was the class to take if you were interested in studying the flora and fauna.

Mr. McNamara confers with Lane Collie while Sharon Renneke, Chris Hong, Jamie VanHook and Trevor Schauenberg work on their experiments.

Mrs. Welling assists Troy Hovinga and William Lewis in dissecting their frog for biology.

Peter Papas and Tracy Skaggs work on the airplane simulator to get the feel of what flying is really like.

People, Places And Things

Past, Present And Future

In 1910, history and government were at the center of the academic disciplines. They were the computer technology and the biochemistry of their day. But interest in social studies is still the one constant that holds the decades and generations together.

An increase in student interest created a rise in enrollment in the Social Studies Department. Required and elective classes that were once humdrum now played an important part in academics.

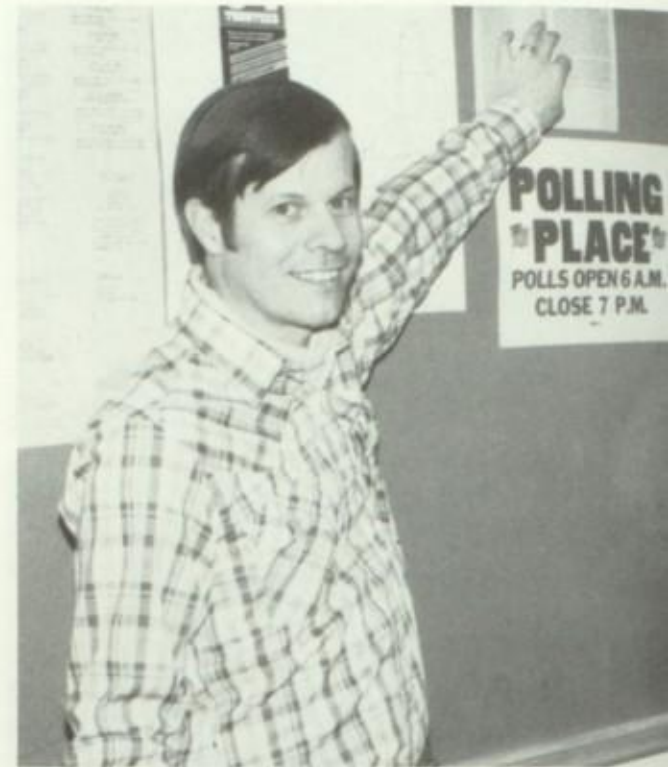

Sociology enrollment increased almost forty percent in one year. But why? Possibly it was a new awareness in social concern or meeting the requirements for high school or college background or maybe sociology was of some vocational interest.

Some of the year's activities were a statistical ranking of student activities at Rocky. We found out the homecoming ceremony placed first and academics came in second. A social analysis was done on the city of Denver to determine the status of the neighborhoods and there was even a short course on ecology.

Of other interest was a pilot class in consumer economics taught by Mr. Dennis. The class formed its own company, sold stock and learned how to run a company. By running a company there was more active involvement by the students and this seemed to make for better grades.

State and Local Government teacher, Mr. John Coolidge points out local voting regulations to Terry Haynes and Jennifer Bills.

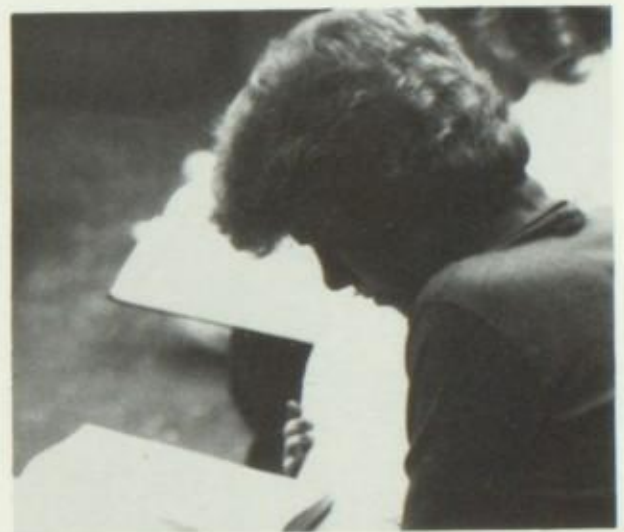

Explaining their European history project to the class are Jeff Murphy and Ted Dasso.

The Civil War Re-Enactors invaded Rocky to help bring a historical event to life for the American history students.

Mrs. Wahe's American History class kept busy studying for a test. Fran Zampogna, Jon Yancey, Jesse Jackson, Naomie Miller, Angie Lantau, Vernon Hammond, Wes Graham and John Kettering looked up answers to review questions.

Helping Themselves And Serving The Community

The Vocational Improvement Program (VIP) once again made education possible for all. VIP takes students who for varied reasons are not able to function in a typical school setting and helped them work toward their Rock Island High School diploma or earn their GED. While they were working toward these goals the students were given the chance to earn credits for college.

Credits were earned by students who attended classes at Black Hawk Junior College. Classes ranged from accounting to law enforcement. Some students earned up to 15 credits which were transferable to colleges like The University of Iowa, Illinois State, Western Illinois or nearly any other college.

VIP students did a wide variety of other things like working in the Thrift Shop and visiting the Rock Island Arsenal.

VIP once again served both students and the community and proved learning could be fun and easy.

Stephanie Condrack and Dana Foy served as co-editors of The Crimson Crier for the first semester.

Fourth period journalism class studied and learned the basics of the course while producing the newspaper at the same time.

School Publications

Hard Work - Long Hours

For the first time in many years both publications, The Crimson Crier and Watchtower, came from the same source. The fourth and fifth hour journalism classes produced both the newspaper and the yearbook at the same time as the classes learned the fundamentals of the profession. This unusual situation was due to the reorganization of the program.

A few fundamental changes were made in the Crimson Crier. Basic layouts were somewhat changed, a photojournalism page was added and several new features appeared. The staff tried to cover a large and changing representation of the student body in copy and pictures with each issue.

The Watchtower celebrated the 75th anniversary of its inception and this became the theme for 1985 yearbook. Student journalists used this occasion to throw a party which served as an opportunity for the staff to get together for some fun.

While these two publications meant much work, late hours and the hassel of meeting deadlines, students were given good practical training in the field of journalism. Those students who contributed throughout the season became a close knit family.

Mr. Vohl of Davenport Central High School invited several members of The Crimson Crier staff over to learn how to do paste-ups with his staff. Stacy Wahe, Julie Tindle, Chad DeWitte, Shelby Adams and Dan Knittle found it to be far more work than they had anticipated.

Delivering The Crimson Crier is a happy part of the total production process. John Poffenbarger, Jonnea Gillis and Machelles Ford found the stacks were a bit awkward and heavy.

Second semester co-editors of The Crimson Crier were Michelle Keller and Heather McMillan.

Sheila Wahe served as advisor to both The Crimson Crier and Watchtower.

Watchtower - Still Going Strong

Three Quarters Of A Century

The central staff of the Watchtower had a big smiles at the prospect that the final deadline was almost finished. Stacy Wahe, Heather McMillan, Michelle Keller, Laurie Fawks and Sharon Shaffer spent many late hours after school to complete this project.

Some of the more consistent photographers for the 1985 yearbook were Wade Camlin, Chip Gass and Jeff Murphy.

Here they are, the busy personnel at Jostens' year-book company in Topeka, Kansas putting together the final version of the Watchtower.

Greta Friedrichsen and Wendi Ekstrom spent lunch periods selling yearbooks to buyers like Candi Hinze.

Long hours after school and a stiff back were Andre Delouiser's rewards for typing much of the material in the Watchtower.

Editor, Sharon Shaffer and assistant editor, Laurie Fawks made the big decisions and did most of the layouts for the anniversary edition of the Watchtower.

A party, complete with cake, was used to help the Watchtower staff have some fun and celebrate 75 years for the school yearbook. The 1985 staff included: Row 1: Mindy Steveson, Anne Raymond, Wendi Ekstrom and Selena Castle. Row 2: Lynn Hayes, Heather McMillin, Kristy McMillan, Sharon Shaffer, Laurie Fawks, Michelle Keller, Stephanie Condrack. # Driving Down The Road

Drivers Education staff: Ben Tietjens, Chester Schultz, Donald Resler and Frank Youngquist.

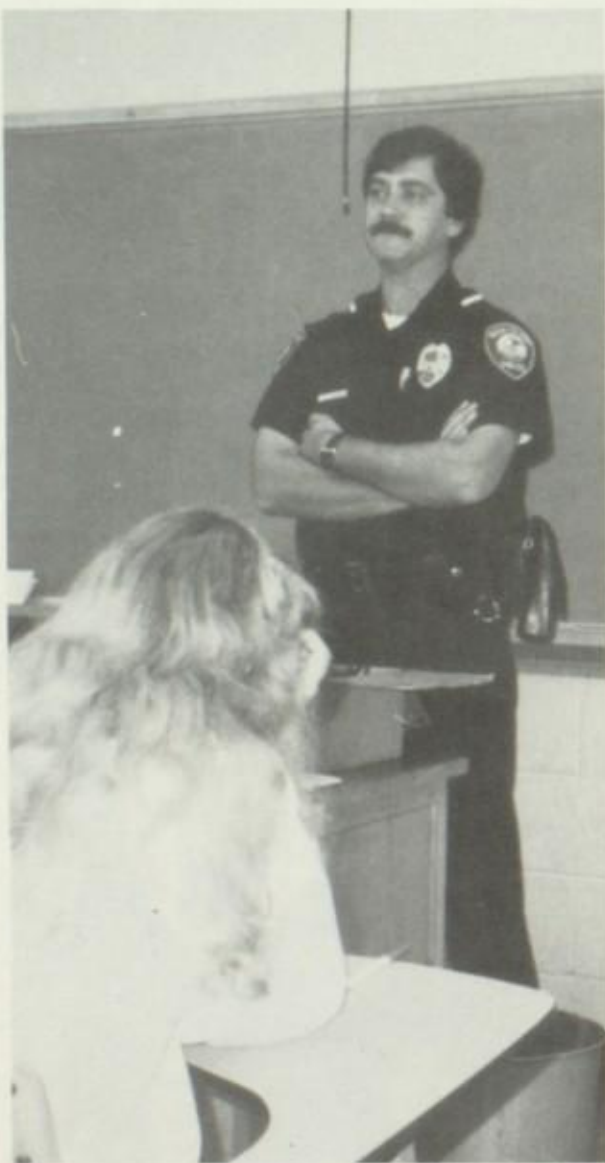

. . . Intelligently

Seventy-five years ago the automobile was remaking and unmaking American economic and social life. It was to that generation what television and the micro chip has been to ours.

Drivers' Education of course, was not part of any high school's curriculum at that time because there weren't any rules of the road. But suffice it to say that somewhere in between the last 75 years or so Drivers Education has replaced Greek and Latin in most American high schools.

In 1985, Driver Education was one of the most practical and popular classes available at Rocky. Not only did the class clear the way for the state driver's examination but it also acquainted the student with auto consumerism, insurance, police traffic policies and information regarding SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving).

Karri Jungwirth and Steve Krukowski put on nervous smiles in the back seat as an inexperienced driver takes the wheel.

Hard Hitting

Gridsters

Winning Season

This years football team may have proved to be surprising to some. With a record of 5-4, and one of those a very close loss, the team had proved to be a great success. The biggest highlight of the year was the exciting double overtime, homecoming victory over Moline. A very satisfying victory for the team was the win over Galesburg 27-7. Coach Bill Burrus explains, "I really felt that this group of young men worked extremely hard together to overcome some of the obstacles that faced them."

The Rocks congratulated themselves for being the hardest hitters in the conference, and Galesburg would probably agree. The teams' biggest assets this year consisted of a large number of returning players, a class of hungry juniors and an excellent staff of Jim Brown, Don Ressler and Paul Carther.

Wins Elusive

The sophomore football team finished the season 3-6 for 1984, however four of the six losses were very close. Alleman 14-12, West 10-6, Galesburg 12-6 and East Moline 28-22. The loss of Tom Piehl, Tom Cole, John Dawson and a few others toward the end of the season weakened the Pebbles somewhat. However, the squad worked hard and was led by Andy Campbell, Brian Church, Fred Delschlager and others to finish a very rewarding season.

The freshman also lost some close games to finish the season 1-6. They were led by Garvin Burton, Brad Loveless and Clarence Triplett.

Over 20 Wins Again

Rocks Win Big 6 And Regionals

The 1984-85 Rock Island High School squad kept the tradition of hard work and team pride alive at Rocky. Not only was there the usual twenty season wins for the fifth year in a row but also the outright championship of the Western Big Six.

The road to the championship was bumpy to begin with as the squad lost its first conference game before reeling off nine straight conference wins.

The road straightened out a bit due to the rapid development of the players. What flaws had been evident were soon replaced by the stellar inside play of Kyle Collins, the strong outside shooting and board work of Brant Carius, the strong defensive play in the middle by Blair De-

Long, the driving "slams" by David Carr, the development of Darrin Baker at point guard and the energizing, self-initiating play of Tony Hickman and Dwayne Brooks. Leadership and direction was also provided by dedicated seniors Mark Borcharding, Kedric Prince and John Dale.

The highlight of the regular season was probably Rocky's victory over Moline in Wharton Fieldhouse where a jam-packed frenzied crowd of over 6,000 fans witnessed Rocky's 60-50 win which clinched the Western Big Six title and enhanced the Rock's ranking as the 11th best team in the state.

David Carr soars high for an offensive rebound score against Chicago Corliss.

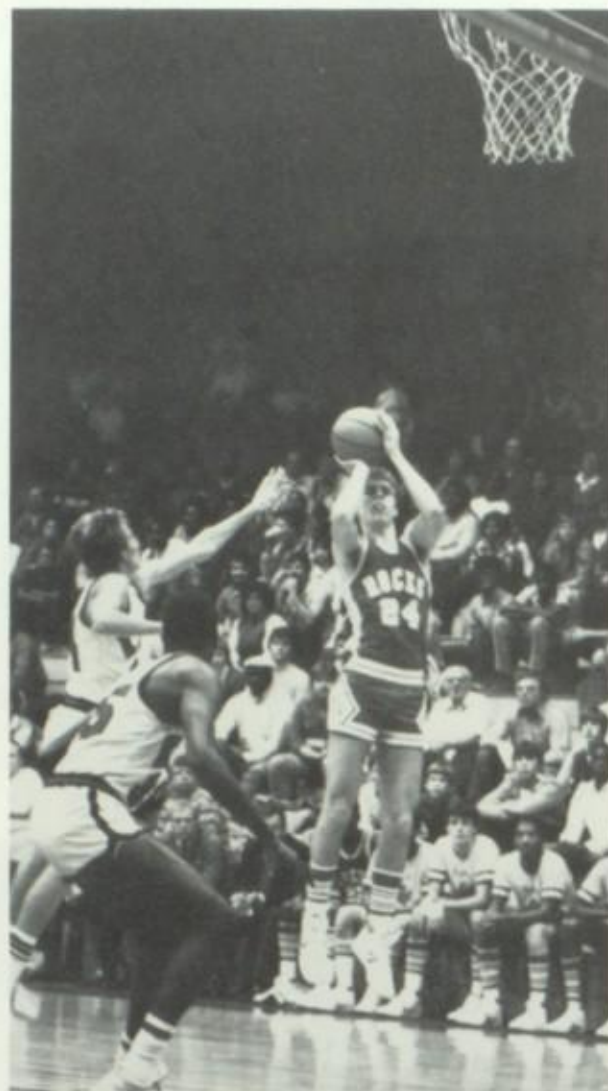

Tony Hickman corrals an errant loose ball during Rocky's 61-50 win over Alleman.

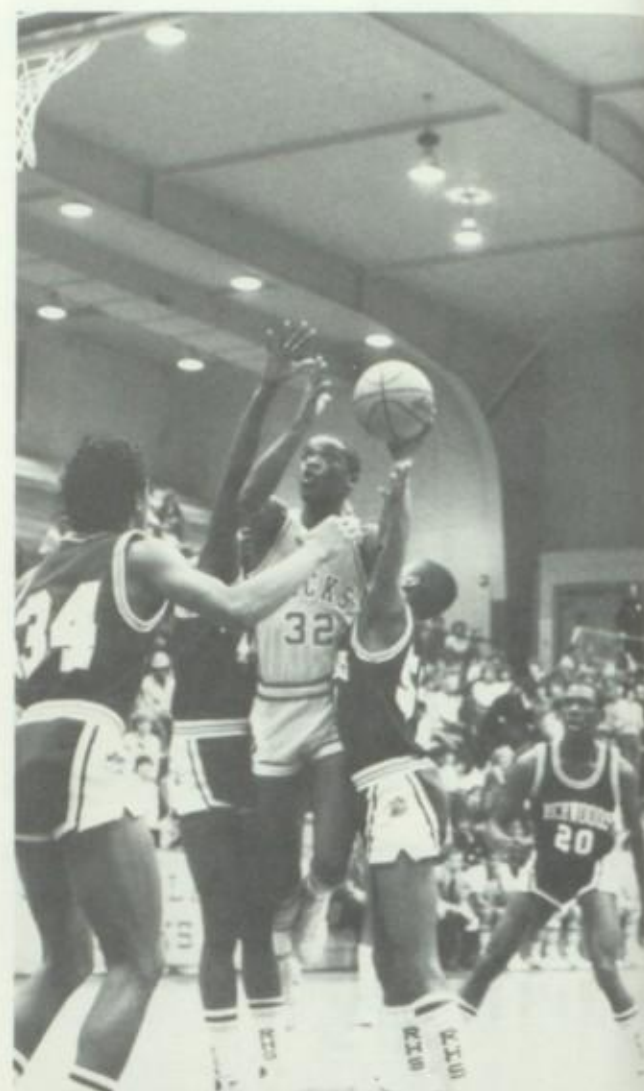

When Kyle Collins worked inside, it was usually with devastating results. Here he moves inside for a score against Moline.

When the opposition packed in the zone, it fell to Brant Carius' perimeter shooting to break the zone.

Bruce Edwards snakes into the paint against Peoria Richwoods drawing the foul.

Sophs- Frosh Win 34

With a varsity squad consisting of eight seniors, the successful progress of the sophomores and freshmen was of paramount importance. Accordingly both teams responded well with a combined record of 34 and 5.

The sophs were led by Tony Ledbetter and Bill Reid with scoring averages of 19 and 16 points respectively. Both also dressed and practiced with the varsity. Other contributing sophomores were Terry McGee, Tom Rossow and the twin, red headed towers, Gordon Staley and Todd Hall.

It looked like the freshmen would go undefeated until they were derailed by a hot shooting Quincy squad. John Barnes, Don Mentria, Sean Pierson, Jim Fisher and Terry Haynes all played key roles in the team's success.

Todd Hall hits on a turn around jumper against Quincy.

Girls' Basketball

Next Year Looks Promising

The Girls' Basketball team had a struggling year with only six varsity members. With the help of some sophomore standouts the girls managed a 9-13 regular season record.

The Rocks relied on good perimeter passing and the outside shooting of seniors Shelby Adams, Bea Flores and junior Celia Bester. The Rocks often out-rebounded their opponents with tree-towers Lori Kirgan and Alice Prince.

Next year should be a good one for the Rocks with three returning as seniors and a very talented sophomore squad moving up.

The sophomore team won the Western Big Six Conference having been undefeated. The freshmen, young but talented, ended with a 6-5 season.

Go - Fight - Win!

Leaders In School Spirit

To perfect the sport of cheerleading, it takes lots of practice and dedication. Cheerleaders do more than yell and lead school spirit.

Cheerleading has its own special techniques just as in football or wrestling. Arm and hand movements must be exact to make a cheer look sharp. Voice is also important. The voice technique starts in the diaphragm to get a deep, loud tone. This enables the crowd to hear what is being said.

The most important part of cheerleading is not the arm movements or the voice, it is the word "leader." Cheerleaders are looked up to just as the captain of the basketball team. They are not just cheer leaders at a game, they are leaders throughout the school.

The award winning football cheerleaders at Rock Island High School spent four days at camp perfecting their cheerleading skills. The varsity squad received two superior ribbons, a "spirit" certificate and were nominated one of the top five squads to compete for the "Award of Excellence." The sophomore squad received two "outstanding spirit" ribbons, most improved squad and outstanding cheerleading skill.

Freshmen cheerleaders were brought back for the basketball season, after being cut two years ago. The girls were coached by Rhonda Carpentier, a graduate and former cheerleader at Rocky. Sophomore and varsity squads were coached by Darcy Weideman.

Varsity basketball cheerleaders, Julie Vassaka, Angie Quintana, Corinna Washington, Debbie DeSmet, Beckie Beane, Candi Hinze, and Debbie Plechaty are full of smiles before a game.

Football players got an extra "spirit" booster after Leah Asquith, Chrysta Jones, Corinna Washington and Angie Quintana finished decorating their lockers.

The photographer caught freshmen cheerleaders Julie Payton, Belinda Blackburn, Candy Wise, Marci Hotchkiss, Lena Lee, Kim Powell, Heidi Dunsmoor and Marji Murphy practicing their mounts.

Cold winter winds make cheering at games almost unbearable at times as shown by Heather McMillan, Corinna Washington, Julie Vassaka and Debbie Plechaty.

One of the keys to the swimmers successful season was Kevin Kieffer.

The team members that went to State were Mike Kramer, Kevin Kieffer, Jim Gripp, Glenn Hopson, Bob LeLonek and Jeff Atkinson. Coach Gilliam was very proud of his team and season record.

Winners

Western Big 6 Sectional

The Rocky Swim team had a great season and Coach Gilliam was extremely proud of his guys.

For the first time in sixteen years, they beat the Moline team. The Rocks then splashed past Moline and East Moline to win the Western Big Six title in true Rocky fashion. Behind the swimming of Jim Gripp and Kevin Kieffer, the team won the Sectional meet also.

It was then off to the state competition for six members of the team. Bob LeLonek scored an impressive 13 points for Rock Island High School. It was the first time since Coach Gilliam swam for Rocky that points in State competition were brought home.

"If you think we did well this year, wait until you see what we accomplish in 1986," exclaimed the coach.

The lone diver of Rocky's Diving team was freshman Drew Peterson.

The seniors on the swim team were Scott Collinson, Jim Gripp and Matt Rowe.

Harris Second In State

The wrestling Rocks ended their season with many grand accomplishments well behind them. Records for the Rocks were 10-6 Varsity and 9-4 Junior Varsity.

The varsity team placed second in both the Palatine and Urbana tournaments and third at Sycamore. This was quite a remarkable season for tournament placings.

Awards given to William Gay for most pins and Most Outstanding wrestler Anthony Harris were both well deserved. Both award winners plus Brian O'Melia advanced to State.

Although Gay and O'Melia were put out in an earlier stage of the state completion, Harris took second place at his 185 pound weight class. Anthony carried a 34-0 record with him into state, but came away losing his first match of the year in the final round of state competition.

Rocks. One sophomore and eight freshmen added the final twist to the squad's score.

The Rocky gymnasts took sixth place at Regionals. Qualifying for Sectionals were Ann McDevitt, Chris Dasso and Beth McDevitt. Although they did well in the meet, they did not qualify for state.

Men Harriers Qualify For State

Look Out Next Year

The boys' cross country team completed an excellent season with the only defeat out of nine meets coming at Bettendorf.

The Rock runners finished third in the Western Big Six, third in the regionals and fifth out of a field of sixteen at the sectionals. The Rocks did not do as well as expected at state finishing 24th out of 27 teams. However for the first time in five years the entire team qualified. But running at state provided good positive experience for a squad which will lose only senior Steve Carlson.

The girls' team broke even with a 4-4 record. The high point of the season was a first place finish in the Rock Falls Invitational.

If you want to talk about a successful, well-balanced track squad, the Rock Island boys' track team will come into your conversation. The Rocks had a terrific season. Winning nine first place finishes in invitational meets, taking the Western Big Six championship, winning three firsts in the State competition and finally, the Rocks set ten new school records. The track team finished the State meet with a convincing second place.

Pacing the Rocks throughout their successful season were Ellis Atwater, Michael Counts, Kyle Collins, Bannon Hayes, Darren Kerschietter, Kermit McDuffie and Jose Salazar. Everyone will be returning and the Rocks look forward to another successful season.

Rebuilding Year

Proves To Be Winning Year

It looked like another rebuilding year in 1984 with the loss of some key seniors, but the girls' track team worked very hard and came out with a very successful season.

The lady Rocks swept the Rock Falls Invitational, won three out of four of the relays at Sterling and finished a strong third at the Western Big Six Conference Meet. Pacing the Rocks throughout the season and also qualifying for state were Cheryl Gunter, Tina Jett and Leslie Allison. The three of them along with graduate Ladonna Scheel qualified for state in the 400 meter relay, the 800 meter relay and the 800 medley relay. Cheryl Gunter also qualified for the 200 meter dash and Tina Jett in the 100 meter low hurdles.

The final results proved that even a rebuilding team can be a winning team.

New Action Takes To The Field

Rock Island High School sports had a great year, and one of the things that made it great was the addition of the soccer team. The Rocks got off to a great start, leading the league with a record of three and one, but soon after that the Rocks got into injury troubles.

After the fourth game of the season, Chris Philips, one of the Rocks leading defensive players, fell injured with a serious foot injury. It kept him out of all but one of the remaining matches. Chris was one of two seniors on the team, joined by five juniors and the rest sophomores and freshmen.

Gary Bender, the Rocks head soccer coach said, "We were a young and small team, but I believe that we will look much better next year." The Rocks ended their first season with a 3-8 record. After the last game of the season was over, coach Bender said, "We may have had a losing record, but those kids never gave up, and I knew in my heart that they had given it all they had."

At the first soccer banquet, three special awards were given. Chad Hough won most valuable player, Mark Duin won best team player and David Voss won most improved player. All in all it was a great season for Rocky's newest sport.

Sean Anderson moves in close to block his opponent from the ball.

Rocky's New Look

On The Diamond

While many Rocky students loafed during last summer's vacation, the baseball team fought for school honor and prestige in the state playoffs. The Rocks thrashed their way to a Western Big Six title for the third consecutive year, then went on to capture the regional title by whipping Alleman, 9-2. Led by 14 year veteran coach, Mr. Jack Carroll, Rocky advanced to the sectionals and put up a good battle in a losing effort against eventual state champion, Morton., The Rocks finished the season at 7-3 in Big Six action and 14-6 in overall play.

Under new head coach, Gary Bender, the 1985 boys' baseball team was tough defensively and put an awesome offensive arsenal on the field. The team relied on last year's batting champ, Bob Bowsher, and team leader, Dave Larson, for most of its power.

While the boys' baseball team finished impressively, the girls' softball squad played equally as well. Under the direction of first year coach, Frank Youngquist, the team finished with a 17-7 record. The girls only returned with five starters, senior Chris Andre, juniors Kelly Dawson, Rita Burkhead, Julie Tindle and sophomore Debbie Styx but had much yet untried and untested talent.

Looking for a bunt, Bob Bowsher is ready for the quick move in from first base.

David Larson made it safely to second base with a cloud of dust and a head first slide.

The girls too had the winning form in pitching as shown above by Debbie Styx.

Men-Women Golfers

Post Winning Seasons

It was a much improved squad of linksters which Coach Nyman led into competition at Highland Springs and neighboring golf courses this past fall. Nyman explained his squad's improvement in terms of its youth.

Scott Young, the only senior, continued to improve his game and provided positive leadership. But it was junior Brian Pearson who showed the most improvement moving from sixth place on the squad to the number one man on the varsity. A summer of hard work not only enabled Brian to be under or at par in all matches save one, but also to be named recipient of the R. Decker Magee Memorial Golf Award.

Other varsity players included sophomores Troy Ellis and Dave Martin and juniors Dave Lioen and John Timmer. The Rocks played in two postseason tournaments. At Sterling they placed 14 out of 21 teams and they finished 23 out of a field of 46 at Peoria.

The women golfers also had a successful season posting a plus .500 record highlighted by placing second in the Western Big Six. Named as team captain for the 1984 season was Colette Chickris, named as Most Valuable Golfer was Vicki McCleary while Angie May was named Most Improved Golfer.

Pan Am And French Club

French club members were busy with activities this year. It started with a St. Nicholas Day party, held during the lunch hours. St. Nick stopped in with gifts for all the good students.

Next, the group took a trip to the Art Institute of Chicago to see French Impressionist paintings on display from Paris. February was the month for Mardi Gras. Everyone dressed up as their favorite French character. The year ended with a picnic. Students talked of the fun throughout the past year and said their goodbyes.

Then on to Pan Am Club. Tortilla Flats was the gathering place for the annual Christmas dinner. Everyone who attended received a souvenir gift from the pinata.

Pan Am once again sponsored a Spanish dance program. Afterwards the performers explained the authentic dances, described their costumes and answered any questions.

The last major event was a Spanish Valentine making contest. Creativity and style were the key factors in deciding the winners.

Officers for the Pan Am club were Mary Udy, secretary, Anne Cudworth, vice-president, Lynn Carstens, treasurer, and Richard Murga, president.

The Rocky Pawn Power had a slow beginning, but finished strong in the end.

This year's team consisted of seven seniors, 15 juniors, 19 sophomores and 7 freshman. Though more than half of the team consisted of lower classmen, the upper classmen still came through.

The season started October 1 and ended April 24. Coached by Arthur Milton and Earl Strupp, the Rocks managed to put a stop to two of the state's top ranked chess teams, Evanston, ranked second and Proviso West, ranked third. The Rocks were then ranked in the top 20 in the state.

The Rocks first invitational was in Roanoke, Illinois where the junior varsity placed first and also tied for fourth, while the varsity managed to take second. The Rocks then traveled to North Boone, Illinois. There the junior varsity again took first with the varsity coming in second.

The chess team, like any other team had its top ranked player. This year senior Bret Gibbons held the number one spot all season.

Future luck to all the returning Rocks!

Key Words Community Service

The year started out with many meetings held in the music room. Members voted on the different activities they could do to better serve the community.

Early last fall Key club members helped the Kiwanis Club sell peanuts for their annual "Kiwanis Peanut Day." The club received half of all proceeds collected to help pay membership fees and the remaining was put back into the community.

Many volunteers were ready to sell balloons at the homecoming game, but malfunctioning in parts led to disappointed faces.

The Friendship Manor Nursing Center was next on the list. Each Key clubber adopted a friend from the home and made frequent visits to spend time and show concern.

The "Learn to Swim" program was open to any 5 to 12 year old child willing to take lessons in the club sponsored activity. Members spent two months teaching the children the basics of the skill.

Mr. Paradiso sponsored the group and helped his great group of volunteers plan and carry out their civic contributions.

Making plans and arrangements for the years activities took a lot of Beckie Beane and Kim Connells' time.

At Christmas time Laurie Fawks and Michelle Keller took orders for the special Santa Claus pictures from Matt Moyes and Sergio Villarreal.

As president of Senate one of Cathy Larson's jobs was to lead the student body in the pledge at all school assemblies.

Junior Senators. Wilesha Clay, John Timmer, Tien Hoang, Mark Duin, Candi Hinze, Kevin Hird.

Senator officers. Barb Eagle, secretary, Leslie Linn, vice-president, Cathy Larson, president, Paula Huntley, treasurer, Steve Carlson, parliamentarian.

Senators . . . Set An Example

The sounding of the gavel brought everyone's attention to President Cathy Larson and the meeting was in progress.

The Senate consisted of seven elected members from each class. Senators set the examples that are to be followed by the student body.

The Senate planned school dances and activities. Homecoming was the first thing being planned when the year began.

The Senate sponsored the Harvest Hoedown and rang bells for the Salvation Army. In addition, they sold glasses to help raise money for the club.

March was the busiest month for the Senate. The Senators sponsored the annual Sweetheart Swirl dance and the Blood Drive, which included all-school participation. Also in March the Illinois Association of Student councils reorganized the Blackhawk district.

"This year's Senate worked very hard and fulfilled many of its goals," said Leslie Linn.

Senate meetings weren't always hard work, sometimes they proved to be fun.

Crimson Sweaters

Varsity Letters, Metals, Pins

Their crimson sweaters bearing gold varsity letters, medals, pins and patches gave their identities away. These students were very easily recognized as members of Rock Island's Letterman Club.

The club's officers Colette Chickris, Mike Cottrell, Sharron Lee and Jon Perkins, planned various activities for the club.

Throughout the year, the Letterman proved to be quite busy. They organized every part of the Homecoming dance and also appeared in the assembly.

The basketball season saw the club render other services. They provided a Hospitality Room for all alumni, coaches, and guests during halftime. They were ushers at the game and took part in crowd control and floor sweeping.

Rocky's Letterman also sponsored a Casino Night and Rent-a-Letterman in February to raise money for Rock Island athletics.

These athletically inclined, award winning students donated their time and effort to their school and community, further making Rock Island what it is today, a place with true pride.

Letterman Officers Colette Chickris, president, Mike Cottrell, vice president, Sharron Lee, treasurer, and Jon Perkins, secretary, take time before a meeting to pose for a picture.

Selling candy canes at Christmas, to support Rock Island athletes were Shellee Showalter, Debbie Plechaty and Cathy Larson.

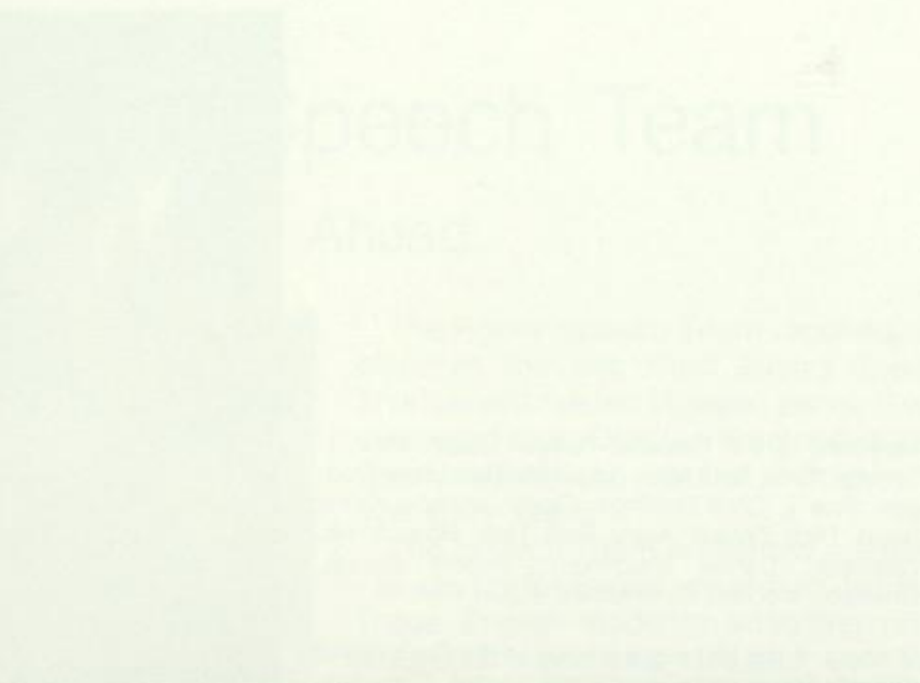

Lettermen members, like Brian Cady, ushered and helped in crowd control during games.

Lettermen, Jeff Murphy and Bob Bowsher, sweep the basketball court at halftime.

Pouring pop for the Hospitality Room were Sarah Franz and Kristen Kessler.

Going Strong, Looking Ahead

The Rocky Speech Team received first place at the first Rock Island Speech Tournament hosted in seven years. It was dedicated to E. Dorothy Peterson, a past speech coach and teacher at Rocky for over forty years.

The Speech Team presented a speech /teach day for English classes in January. Those English students attending really enjoyed the performances and were able to see the great improvement of the team.

There were 12 events in the Regional Tournament. Rocky students advanced to the sectionals in ten of these. Over-all the Regional team finished in second place. Mr. Oestreich said, "It was a good building year, and I'm very optimistic about the future."

An acting duet by Tien Hoang and Kathy Boyd presented them as old friends "passing the time."

Jamie VanHook and Elizabeth Rich started the season with an acting duet for the first speech tournament.

A new feature of daily life at Rocky for 1985 was the morning announcements by the Speech Team members. Stacey Howe and Shelli Curtis do the honors.

Science Club

Exploring Many Interests

The purpose of the Science club has been to raise interest in the field of science and to explore our own interest and abilities in this field.

This year's science club had one of its largest memberships with over 200 members. One of the reasons that the membership was so large was partly because of the unusual and different speakers at the meetings.

Some of these speakers were, "the Bearded Wonder" with Mr. McNamara showing his talents in the field of chemistry. Next, Neal Castor showed the wonders of weather forecasting. One of the most popular speakers was a hypnotist, Bruce Grossmen.

The Science Club did some other fun things also. The Annual Christmas fondue party in which the real art of fondue was taught brought out many members. Another popular event, the yearly steak fry, was a crowd pleaser. A trip to Chicago, a visit to "Prairie Park" and canoeing down the Maquoketa River completed the year's activities.

Marching Down The Road . . . .

Long Hours, Hard Work

"Leaders of the Band" as the Marching Rocks lead-off the Homecoming Parade.

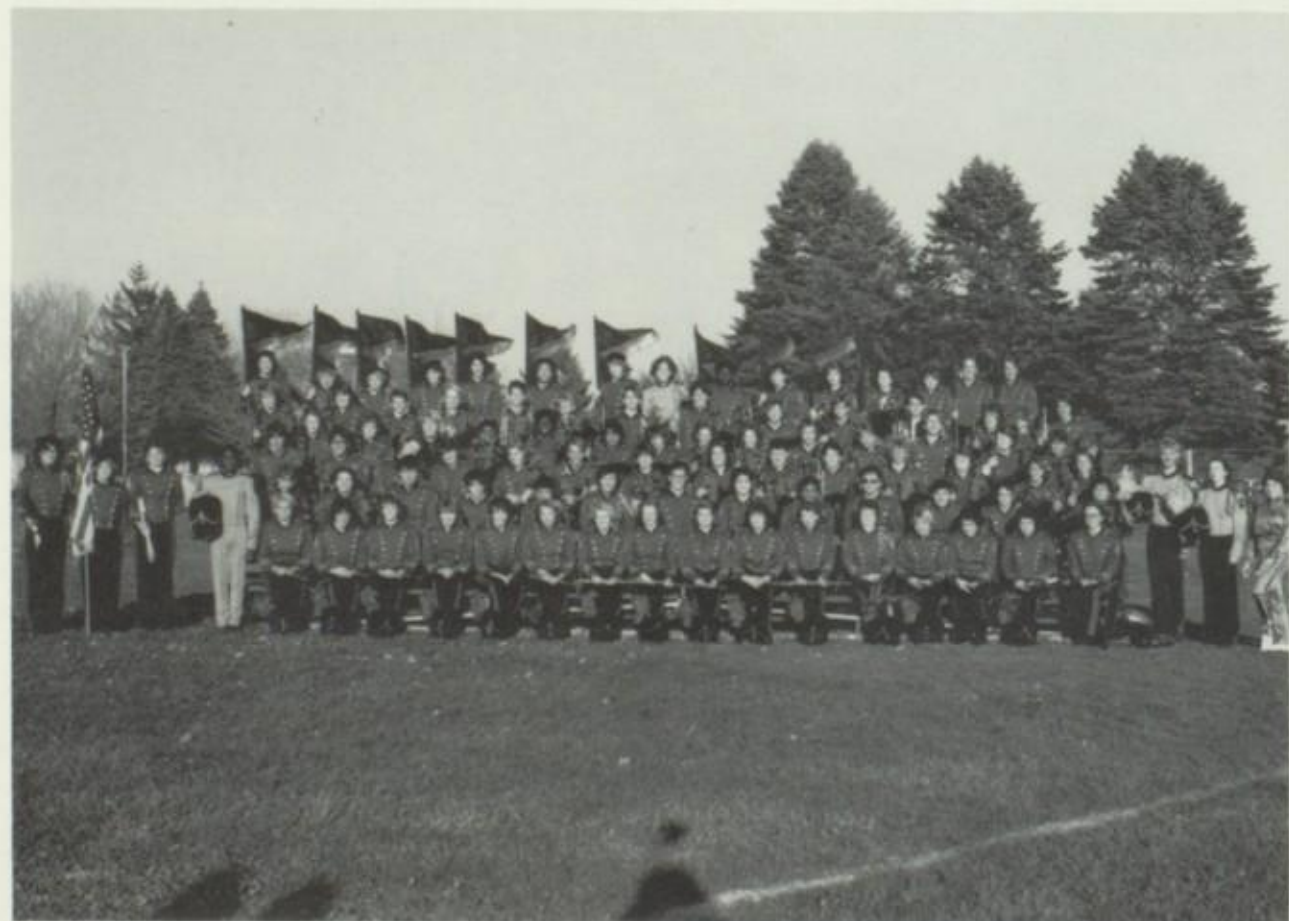

The Marching Rocks began their colorful season with the Milan Indian Summer Festival which was used as a pre-competition parade. They went on to place quite well in many competitions such as Western Illinois Homecoming Parade, the Monmouth Parade and the Morton Pumpkin Festival. As always, the Marching Band led-off the R.I.H.S. Homecoming Parade and football game. As something new, the band entered the St. Ambrose Field Show competition and ended its season by dismissing the senior members the last home game.

By the end of October, the Marching Rocks' season finished, and the Concert Band and Wind Ensemble prepared for the winter concerts. Several members of the Wind Ensemble were selected to participate in the I.H.S.A. All-District Band, Orchestra and Jazz Festival which was held in November.

After a successful winter concert, the Band received news that four students, Paul Lappin, Martin Dennis, Miranda Callahan and Andre Delouiser were chosen to perform at the I.H.S.A. All-State competition which took place in January at Peoria. Later, the Wind Ensemble and Concert Band participated in the Solo and Ensemble competitions.

This year the Jazz Band chose to compete in the W.I.U. Jazz Festival and the R.O.V.A. Jazz Festival. With this year's addition of teacher, Mr. Rick Scott, a Rocky graduate, the Jazz Combo went on to capture many achievements. Being the director of the Pep Band for the last four years, Mr. Butterfield brought out great sounds for the fans at this year's basketball games.

Special Programs-Contests

Bring Praise And Honors

Rocky's Glee Club had a slow start this year but once Mrs. Dorothy Klinger arrived they took off with a bang. They only had a matter of several weeks to get ready for their first big performance of the year.

Christmas presented the golden opportunity to showcase the new sounds of the group. Special programs were presented at The First National Bank, WOC-TV and nursing homes in the area. An evening performance at school followed by caroling in the halls the final day before vacation allowed everyone in the school to appreciate what could be done.

The special groups like Swing choir, Madrigal, Concert Glee and Mixed Quartet began to attend contest throughout Iowa and Illinois and brought home a variety of honors. Not only were their sounds good but they added a variety of costumes and choreography to enhance the total program.

Dianna Jennings and Amanda Shultz practice their songs for the Iowa City Honors Choir.

When The Curtain Goes Up

The Fun Begins

The first production sponsored by the Rock Island High School Drama Department was "Bernadine." The play was a comedy about a group of boys in search of the perfect woman. The only problem was once they found her she didn't turn out to be so perfect.

The second play was "Voices From The High School." Sometimes you laughed, sometimes you cried and sometimes you were shocked as the company of actors and actresses re-enacted scenes from high school life as teenagers live it.

The final production was a little different. Acting, singing and dancing were all put together to form a type of follies show.

All in all the Drama Department put together another very successful theater season at Rock Island High School.

Pat Elder, David Slivken, Steve Hudson and Todd Simmer wait to be served by Stacy Wahe in a scene from "Bernadine."

Doug Fitzsimmons, Matt Dietrich, Todd Simmer and Pat Elder become Erin Purcell's back up group in a scene from "Voices From The High School."

National Honor Society

Setting Standards

The end of first semester signaled the official formation of the 1985 National Honor Society at Rock Island High School. One hundred twenty-two students made this year's list. To be eligible for Honor Society membership a student had to maintain a 3.65 grade point average and provide service to both the school and community.

Thirty-six seniors, 40 juniors and 46 sophomores met the rigid requirements to enter the elite organization. Seniors chose Leslie Linn, Lane Collie and Sharron Lee as their representative officers. Junior officers were Ann McDivitt, Kevin Hird and Kristen Kessler.

Junior Marshalls, who lead the graduation procession, were chosen by the senior Honor Society members. Kristen Kessler, Chris Lundgren, Brian O'Melia and Todd Stengel took those honors for the 1985 graduation ceremony.

Prepared For The Future

Health Occupations is a program designed for students interested in health care. Students joined the program in their junior year, and were taught basic nurses aide skills. They participated in the classroom, and twice a month visited the hospital and nursing home to care for the sick and disabled patients. Under the supervision of their instructor, Mrs. McLaughlin, a registered nurse the students helped the regular staff. After completing this course these students became certified nurse's assistants.

The next step of this program was for Senior students to have the opportunity to perform their skills at local hospitals, nursing homes, health care centers and doctors offices.

These students not only held parttime jobs, receiving over minimum wage, but spent a few hours a day in the classroom to increase their knowledge and skills.

This program enabled the students to make the decision of whether or not to pursue a career in such health related fields. Should a student have decided to continue studying in this area, Basic Nurse's Aide and Health Occupations gave them the experience of on the job training. In addition they would be better prepared to enter a school dealing with health occupations.

Assisting Dr. Howard Gerstein with his patient, Julie Johnson was one of Tammy Barker's charges.

Working at St. Anthony's Continuing Care Center Tammy Lockhart, Angie Quintana, Kim Stribling and Rhonda Forbes found a friend in many residents.

Office Occupations

Working For A Living

Office occupations experienced a rough start this year since many students were unable to find jobs and had to be placed in the regular school schedule again. By the third week however the group settled in at twenty.

Office Occupations's director Ms. Quinlin stressed the necessities of knowing how to operate office machinery and improvement of their office skills. These students attended school for half a day and then went to work at a local business. Students also received grades from their employer.

Office Occupation students sold candy and treasure chests, had bake sales, sponsored dances and held a Bowl-A-Thon to raise money for its annual employer/employee Appreciation Banquet.

Office Occupations sponsored a winter dance to earn a little extra money. Jennifer Alexander, Kelly Price and Barb Gunter worked admissions.

While working at WHBF, Shelly McCombs and Marsha Husted looked over the days agenda.

Employed Rocks

Earn While They Learn

While most Rocky students were digesting lunch, other's were on their way to work. The morning work program classes instructed by Mr. Biggs and Mrs. Franck proved to be convenient to students having employment hours ranging between 9 and 5. For most working students, first lunch marked the end of their Rocky day.

Mr. Biggs' Cooperative Work Training, (C.W.T.), class had a wide variety of employed students from mechanics to waitresses. Mrs. Franck's HERO program had mainly restaurant employees.

These vital programs covered various techniques in applying for jobs and holding one down. Tax paying and basic information on handling your income were just a few of the many adult responsibilities covered during the year.

"I found the beef!", exclaimed Jenny Manning, while preparing her first hamburger.

Getting ready for the lunch crowd, Hardees' employees, Kevin Davis and Ken Rangen begin frying hamburgers.

Floats, Scholarships And Exhibits

Black Student Union

The Black Student Union kicked off another action packed year full of activities and fundraisers.

The organization began the school year with a float in the homecoming parade and continued with fundraisers such as working in the stands at football and basketball games, bake sales, cookie drives, and dances to provide for their annual $500 scholarship to a minority student.

Mrs. Glasgow, a new B.S.U. sponsor stressed the importance of black history week by helping the members schedule a week of events which took place at the school. They also had a black art exhibit of work done by a few talented Rocky students.

The Black Student Union closed out the year with a pizza party for all participating members.

Black Student Union members rode in their contribution to the homecoming parade.

Changes Over 75 Years . . .

While a class ring has been a popular symbol of seniors for many years such a wide variety of styles and sizes has never before been available.

Spirit weeks were used to promote Homecoming and to mark the starting of a new athletic season. Wearing the dress of the day for college sweatshirt day were Lisa Kolweit, Cheryl Lindeman, Mary Beth Udy, Dana Munson, Trevor Schauenberg, James Lappin, Troy Ellis, Fred Oelschlaeger.

The absence of band in 1910 also meant the absence of frustrated flag girls like Angie Scalf.

Students were not always allowed to be on the school board or to be active in helping make decisions concerning the student body. This years student school board members were Tom Snyder, Dan Knittle and Lonnie Ledford.

Participating in Rent-A-Letterman, Pryce Boeye and Herb Ball were dressed up as devoted Hawkeye fans and sang the Iowa fight song in the cafeteria at lunch.

The 1985 secretarial staff found it was fun to interact with students and take part in their special school activity days. Mrs. Narske, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Bamman and Mrs. Mander dressed for a Halloween special event.

Fans of all shapes and sizes appeared to cheer our teams on to victory.

Taking a break from the post-game Hawaiian dance, Lily Lee and Holly Johnson enjoyed a school sponsored activity not offered in 1910.

While the sport of wrestling dates back at least 5,000 years RIHS didn't enter their first team in interscholastic competition until 1939.

The addition of a swimming pool to the high school has certainly been an asset to both the academic and athletic programs.

A special thanks to those students and staff who were so patient and helpful while we were composing pages and meeting deadlines. An additional thanks to the fourth and fifth period journalism students for their help in obtaining the detail information and identifications necessary to such a publication.

We sincerely regret any and all errors, especially the misspelling of a name of the incorrect identification of a student.

After many years of service to Rock Island School District 41 Joan Werthmann, Ken Koch, Darrell Biggs and Chester Schultz are looking forward to enjoyable years of retirement.

Marilyn Henson has served Rocky students for 40 years as secretary and manager of the book store. Walter Ball has been taking care of the audio visual equipment during his years of service. Dorothy Brutsche, cafeteria manager will also be joining these two in a relaxing retirement. Thanks and best wishes go with all these friends of Rock Island High School.
